Bill & Pay

45. Is a change in the billing cycle possible?

Currently, the bill cycle date is fixed that is 1st of every month.

46. If I made an excess payment what is the refund process?

The excess amount paid will get adjusted in the next bill.

47. Do I have an option to deduct TDS?

Yes. You can opt for TDS deduction and select the TDS rate at the time of registering for Auto Pay. Please ensure that you submit the TDS certificates to Jio on timely basis.

48. What is the benefit of JioAutoPay?

JioAutoPay is a convenient method to pay your bills automatically as per the billing cycle and the due date, using your bank account. This helps you avoid late fees, relieving you from having to remember the due date and getting multiple reminders.

49. What is e-NACH?

e-NACH stands for Electronic National Automated Clearing House. It is introduced by National Payment Corporation of India (NPCI) and allows service providers to automate recurring payments (Autopay) from bank accounts.

50. What are the requirements for using e-NACH?

There are two ways to use e-NACH. The requirements for both are as below.

With Bank Account: You should have a savings/ current account in a bank (bank should be part of participating banks list of e-NACH through Net Banking) accessible through personal net banking and not corporate banking. Login credentials of such bank account should be available with you for authentication.

With Debit Card: You should have a debit card (debit card issuer bank should be part of participating banks list of e-NACH through debit card) and its authentication details.

51. Which current accounts typically have personal net banking facility?

Typically banks give personal net banking facility to individual and proprietor current accounts.

52. Do banks issue debit cards to current account holders?

Yes, banks issue debit cards to current account holders.

53. If my savings/ current bank account does not have personal net banking facility, how can I sign up for JioBusiness?

If you don't have personal net banking facility, you can use the debit card associated with the account to sign up for JioBusiness (debit card issuer bank should be part of participating banks list of e-NACH through debit card).

54. What if I don't have a debit card associated with my savings/ current bank account?

If you don't have debit card associated with your current/ savings account, use alternate payment options such as Paytm Payments bank to do e-NACH registration.

55. What is the purpose of the Rs. 30,000 Maximum transaction limit on the Bank's ENACH registration page?

The transaction limit is a safeguard for you. The limit of 30,000 has been set as the maximum authorized amount that can be debited per transaction. Please note that the debit amount will never be more than the total Jio invoice amount. Which is as per the plan opted by you.

56. If I have a corporate account which does not support Personal Net banking, how can I sign up for JioBusiness?

You can use debit card associated with the account (debit card issuer bank should be part of participating banks list of e-NACH through debit card).

57. What if I don't have a debit card associated with my corporate bank account?

In such case, use alternate payment options such as Paytm Payments bank to do e-NACH registration

58. Why is the maximum transaction limit greater than the plan rentals?

The maximum transaction limit is maintained at a higher limit than the monthly plan rentals to avoid re-registration every time you upgrade a plan/ subscription or if you go for add-ons.

59. What amount will I have to pay through JioAutoPay?

You will pay the amount mentioned in the invoice shared with you through JioAutoPay.

60. Can Jio charge more than my monthly bill through JioAutoPay and in what instance?

The debit amount through JioAutoPay will be basis your invoice amount only.

61. Will Jio be sharing the monthly invoice before the JioAutoPay debit?

We will share the invoice as per the bill cycle. Auto Debit will happen around bill due date. Pre-debit notification will be sent to you before the actual debit so that you can keep sufficient balance in the account at the time of debit.

62. Which are the banks live on NACH for JioAutoPay?

Path to access the list of banks live on NACH for JioAutoPay:-

<https://www.npci.org.in/what-we-do/nach/live-members/e-mandates/Live Banks in API E-Mandate>

63. What should I do If my bank is not in the list of NACH affiliated Banks?

If your bank is not in the list of NACH affiliated banks, then use alternate payment options such as Paytm Payments bank to do e-NACH registration.

64. How can I use alternate payment options such as Paytm Payments bank to do e-NACH registration?

You need to first get registered on the Payments bank (e.g. Paytm Payments bank is a NACH affiliated bank). Your account can then be attached to the Payments Bank and JioAutoPay registration can be completed.

65. I encountered an error during JioAutoPay registration. Why does this happen?

You may have encountered the error due to multiple reasons such as downtime at NPCI / Acquirer bank / Issuer bank (your bank), delay in entering the required details leading to time-out, Issuer bank not supporting e-NACH etc. Post creation of ENACH Debit Mandate, if it is rejected by NPCI / Bank, it displays the actual reason for rejection.

66. Is Auto Pay mandatory for this service?

Yes. Auto Pay is mandatory. With Auto Pay you can rest easy and not worry about bill due dates. And, your service continues with no disruptions.

67. Once I register for Auto Pay, on which date will the charges get deducted?

The charges will be deducted five days before the due date, every month.

68. What if the payment fails with Auto Pay?

On the second consecutive failure within the same bill cycle, the Auto Pay option will be revoked. Post this, unfortunately, the service will be suspended.

69. What is One-time refundable amount?

One-time refundable amount collected at time of plan purchase, is the deposit for Jio provided devices (ONT Modem and Voice Gateway - IAD). If you choose to discontinue the service, you will receive a refund of your eligible security deposit amount, provided the installed devices are returned in good and working condition only after adjusting the unpaid dues if any. Security deposit will be refunded through National Electronic Funds Transfer (NEFT) in your account. Refund may take up to 60 days from the date of cancellation request received.
